Evening – Setting Sun.

Published Dec.r 1 1800 by John Marshall N.o 4 Aldermary Church Yard London

LITTLE MARY;

OR, THE

PICTURE-BOOK.

BY SABINA CECIL.

London:

PRINTED AND SOLD BY

JOHN MARSHALL,

140, FLEET STREET,

From Aldermary Church-Yard.

1823.

Price Sixpence.

It is evening; the sun is setting, and the shepherd, who tends the flocks of little Mary's Papa, is, with his good little dog, driving the sheep to the fold, where they will rest in safety. That is his cottage which stands on the other side of the road.

The tongs stood in the room where Mary oft staid,
And the lantern gave light to the hall where she play'd.

The table was placed in the corner quite snug,
And the milk for her breakfast was put in the jug.

Should you not have liked to have been with her, and jumped and played on the lawn, and in the shrubberies.

When little Mary was cold, 'twas Mamma's desire,
That in this pretty stove should be made a nice fire.

This bottle you see,
Holding water quite clear,
Is to wash Mary's hands,
Till they cleanly appear.

In little Mary's room were placed near at hand,
This elegant snuffers, and sweet pretty stand.

These plates you admire for being so neat,
Held little Mary's pudding, her pie,
or her meat.

A Moſs Roſe.

Pub.d Dec.r 1 1800 by T. Marshall N.o 41 Lumaxy Church Yard.

This is the rose that hid the thorn that pricked little Mary's finger.

Little Mary was eating her breakfast when she saw a Robin red-breast standing on a rail, at a little distance; she gathered up the crumbs as fast as she could, and threw them out of the window upon the gravel walk. As soon as the bird observedthebread, he jumped down off the rail, and began picking up the crumbs: but Mary, eager to shew her love to her little visitor, threw out more crumbs, which frightened it away.

A Crocus.

Published Feb.y 1. 1800 by J. Marshall N.o 4 Aldermary Church Yard

This is the Crocus that grew in little Mary's garden by the side of the snow-drop and primrose.

A traveller and his little dog, one day, wanted to get to the other side of a river; but the man was so very poor he could not find money enough
